

December 2011

Blossom guided me to a successful application as a New Business Executive at Pitney Bowes Business Insight; the dedicated team sought out to understand who I was, how I could tailor my career experience to what my role required and how to work effectively for my company.

Working as a team, my employers, the Blossom director, mentors and I, produced a development schedule and equipped me with industry insight knowledge. The wide-ranging and well-orchestrated coaching techniques showed me how to use my strengths and work on my weaknesses; the training received has proved to be an invaluable asset and I believe that it'll be the case throughout my professional career.

I was made to feel extremely comfortable and welcome by all; I had regular one-to-ones and if I had any issues, they were quick to alleviate any queries or concerns that I may have had.

In all, the experience was second to none (as far as training schemes go) – the team were personable and reliable, yet there was a deep-rooted professionalism in the way the Blossom team worked. I found the process valuable and I would recommend it to all.
